FORTY YEARS ON

Congregation and the Alumni Association are honouring to-day those veterans of the First Convocation of this University who met on August 21, 1912 to elect the first Chancellor and fifteen members of Senate. By the terms of the University Act, passed four years previously, the first Convocation was to consist of twenty-five members selected by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and all graduates "of any University in his Majesty's Dominions" who had resided for at least two years in the province, registered with Provincial Secretary and paid the required fee. It is impressive testimony to the interest shown by these men and women in the future of higher education in British Columbia that some 800 enrolled between May 1 and July 31, 1912. From Edward Charles Arthur, B.A., Victoria College, Coburg, of Nelson to Byron Yandall Hill, B.A., University of New Brunswick, of South Hill, alumni of every Canadian university and their brethren from Oxford, Cambridge and London, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Aberdeen, Manchester and Durham, the Royal University of Ireland and Trinity College, Dublin, responded to the call of help launch Canada's youngest university. To turn the pages of the first register and read their names is like unfurling an honour roll of British Columbia's leaders in church and state and the professions. Blaylock of Trail and Wade of Kamloops, Wolverton of Nelson and Howay of New Westminster, Brewster and Tolmie, McKechnie and Brydone-Jack, Sanford, De Pencier and McLaren, E. P. Davis, Aulay Morrison and Denis Murphy, Annie Jamieson, Lily Laverock, Evelyn Farris and Rosalind Young, E. B. Paul and G. E. Robinson, S. J. Willis, and L. F. Robertson—they are all there. Some of them—as many as are available—will be with us tonight; one of them, H. T. Logan, is present here with the faculty as chairman of the Department of Classics.

Forty years is not a long time in the life of a University, which must by the very nature of things be timeless and ageless. But The University of British Columbia can claim as eventful a first forty years as any of its peers. Its first classes met under the grim shadow of the First World War. Of the 342 students who gathered in "temporary" quarters in Fairview on September 30, 1915 many, like our present Chancellor, were soon to be off to the wars. It is in their memory that the undergraduate gown has its yoke edged with khaki cord. The energy and determination of the students in the early Twenties made the Government "See the Point," as the college paper happily proclaimed in 1922, but it was not till three years later that the University was settled at Point Grey. It had scarcely got used to its new quarters before the Great Depression put an end to hopes of expansion and reduced its vitality to the lowest point consistent with survival. Scarcely had it begun to move forward again when a Second World War required the services and sacrifices of many of its staff and students. Again when its guns grew silent the University, like a true Alma Mater, welcomed its sons and daughters back to academic halls, and turned away no qualified veteran who sought higher education. At the peak of this period almost 5,000 veterans streamed across the Campus with some 4,400 other students. They gave to the student body and the faculty the same example of keenness and sound scholarship as did the "returned men" after World War One. To-day with its Faculties and Schools, its new Departments and its expanded facilities the University is entering upon a second forty years of service. May it receive from members of Convocation in that period the same loyal and devoted support that was given by the Convocation of 1912.

F. H. SOWARD.
