THE UNIVERSITY THANKS ITS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT

The University owes much of its stature to private gifts. Research studies by the academic staff and graduate assistants are made possible, in large measure, by such grants. Special teaching projects are supported or assisted by bequests. Many scholarships, prizes and bursaries have been provided by individual benefactors, alumni, firms, foundations and associations. Some of the major buildings on the campus, as well as a wide variety of other projects, serve as lasting testimony to the generosity of those who helped build U.B.C.

The basic support of the University is provided by student fees and by grants from the Province of British Columbia and the Government of Canada. The excellence of the education it offers, however, depends to a great extent on added support received from friends. Benefactors, during the past year, donated $6,522,608.

A record of private gifts made in the year ending 31st March 1968 will be mailed to the donors and to others concerned with support for higher education. Should you wish to receive a copy of this brochure please write or call the Resources Council as shown at the foot of the page.

The brochure shows a fascinating variety of thoughtful and meaningful gifts-in-kind, as well as the many hundreds of gifts of money: bison and mountain goat bones from Lulu Island and the skull of an extinct bison found in the Yukon territory; a grinding mill, valued at $1500; a Chinese culture chart, a set of New Guinea arrows and a bow; one purebred Yorkshire boar; the ceremonial robes, Haida crest shirt, church robes and pilot cap of the late Rev. Dr. Peter Kelley, who was a United Church missionary skipper on the "Thomas Crosby" mission boat based in Ocean Falls; a free aeroplane trip (to secure silver ore specimens); a telescope for Cecil Green Park; 1000 day old chicks. Alumni across the world make their contributions, many annually. Gifts have been made anonymously, directly, in memory of relatives, in honour of friends and by bequest in wills. This brochure does not include the detail of the magnificent support received from donors to the Three Universities Capital Fund. Provincial and Federal Government grants, the mainstay of the University's finances, are recorded in other University publications.

With twelve faculties, seven schools and four institutes, the needs of the University are many and varied. Support is welcome in every area of teaching, research and student aid. However, as the needs and priorities of the University change we welcome early opportunities to discuss with donors the form their support might take. No gift is too small—and none too large—to be of value.

The University owes much of its stature to private gifts. Research studies by the academic staff and graduate assistants are made possible, in large measure, by such grants. Special teaching projects are supported or assisted by bequests. Many scholarships, prizes and bursaries have been provided by individual benefactors, alumni, firms, foundations and associations. Some of the major buildings on the campus, as well as a wide variety of other projects, serve as lasting testimony to the generosity of those who helped build U.B.C.

The basic support of the University is provided by student fees and by grants from the Province of British Columbia and the Government of Canada. The excellence of the education it offers, however, depends to a great extent on added support received from friends. Benefactors, during the past year, donated $6,522,608.

A record of private gifts made in the year ending 31st March 1968 will be mailed to the donors and to others concerned with support for higher education. Should you wish to receive a copy of this brochure please write or call the Resources Council as shown at the foot of the page.

The brochure shows a fascinating variety of thoughtful and meaningful gifts-in-kind, as well as the many hundreds of gifts of money: bison and mountain goat bones from Lulu Island and the skull of an extinct bison found in the Yukon territory; a grinding mill, valued at $1500; a Chinese culture chart, a set of New Guinea arrows and a bow; one purebred Yorkshire boar; the ceremonial robes, Haida crest shirt, church robes and pilot cap of the late Rev. Dr. Peter Kelley, who was a United Church missionary skipper on the "Thomas Crosby" mission boat based in Ocean Falls; a free aeroplane trip (to secure silver ore specimens); a telescope for Cecil Green Park; 1000 day old chicks. Alumni across the world make their contributions, many annually. Gifts have been made anonymously, directly, in memory of relatives, in honour of friends and by bequest in wills. This brochure does not include the detail of the magnificent support received from donors to the Three Universities Capital Fund. Provincial and Federal Government grants, the mainstay of the University's finances, are recorded in other University publications.

With twelve faculties, seven schools and four institutes, the needs of the University are many and varied. Support is welcome in every area of teaching, research and student aid. However, as the needs and priorities of the University change we welcome early opportunities to discuss with donors the form their support might take. No gift is too small—and none too large—to be of value.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE UNIVERSITY

With the installation of Dr. Frederick Kenneth Hare as its fifth President the University of British Columbia enters, once again, a new period in its growth and development. Time alone will reveal the changes that will inevitably take place in the physical structure and the intellectual atmosphere of the University, but the foundations are firm and well-tested.

For some in today's audience the University's history is fresh and vital, for they themselves have participated in the unfolding action. But for many, perhaps most, the story is but partially known. For them, this brief sketch may provide a perspective or background for this significant occasion.

Sixty years ago, on 7 March, 1908, the Provincial Legislature gave final approval to "An Act to Establish and Incorporate a University for the Province of British Columbia." Though earlier attempts to bring a provincial university into being can be traced well back into the nineteenth century, it was this Act that eventually gave birth to the present institution, and it was under this Act, with certain amendments, that the University operated as the sole public university in the province until 1963. In that year the Legislature passed a new Universities Act that allowed for the establishment of additional degree granting institutions, notably the University of Victoria and Simon Fraser University.

In the beginning the infant institution had no visible shape, no real existence. For the first seven years following its incorporation, it required shaping, nurture, and a place for growth. In 1911 the Point Grey site was granted to the University; in 1912 the first Convocation, consisting "of all graduates of any university in his Majesty's dominion resident in the Province two years prior to the date fixed for the first meeting together with twenty-five members selected by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council", chose the first Chancellor, The Hon. F. L. Carter-Cotton; in 1913 the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council appointed as first President a young distinguished Canadian, Dr. F. F. Wesbrook, then Dean of Medicine at the University of Minnesota; and in 1914 construction of the Science Building started on the Point Grey site.

But even as the skeleton outlines of that first building started to rise above the surrounding forest, war came to the world. Cherished plans were shattered, and it was in temporary quarters in Fairview, on part of the site of the General Hospital, that the first classes of the university were held. The date was September 30, 1915; the total number of students 379, among whom were many who had started their studies at McGill University College of Vancouver or Victoria College, institutions then brought into the new community of teachers and scholars.

In the next three years courses were developed and the Faculties of Arts and Science, Applied Science, and Agriculture were given form and substance. Achievements were recorded; but the disruptions and tragedies of war were ever present. In October, 1918, shortly before the Armistice, the courageous and pioneering President, Dr. Wesbrook, died. The first era had come to an end.

The second era lies basically between the two world wars. Two figures dominate the unfolding story. The first is that of the second President, Dr. L. S. Klinck. Appointed as Dean of Agriculture in 1914, he had served in that role during the early years of the University, and on the death of Dr. Wesbrook had been appointed as Acting-President. Within a few months his position as President was confirmed, and for the next twenty-five years he guided the institution through periods of dramatic change and deep anguish. He retired in 1944 to become the first President Emeritus. During his long term he worked closely with the second dominant figure of the period—Dr. R. E. McKechnie, who became Chancellor on the retirement of Mr. Carter-Cotton in 1918, and held his high office until his death in 1944.

Within these twenty-five years the event of primary importance was the Great Trek in 1922, the culmination of a vast and powerful student campaign which called upon the Government to reopen the building programme on the Point Grey site. The protest was successful. Building was resumed, and the first classes to be held on the present campus met at the opening of term in September, 1925. Approximately fifteen hundred students registered in the three faculties that still constituted the University.

Such was the great achievement of the period. All too soon it was followed by the bitterness of the depression years, which brought drastic cuts in revenue. Only by making great sacrifices and by sharply reducing staff did the University survive those dark days, to encounter the sombre years of the second World War.

Towards the triumphant close of that war, the University entered upon its third era—an era of unprecedented change and expansion, the fullness of which could not have been foreseen even by the most visionary of its leaders. Fortunately leadership was not lacking; it came from a series of devoted—even dedicated—chancellors, and from an imaginative President, who rarely used the word impossible.

The Hon. Eric W. Hamber, the first of the post-war chancellors, completed Dr. McKechnie's unexpired term, then continued to hold office until his retirement in 1951. He was succeeded by Chief Justice Sherwood Lett, one of the University's first graduates, and a distinguished soldier and noted barrister. At the end of his second term of office, he was followed by another outstanding alumnus, Dr. A. E. Grauer, who gave unstintingly of his time and energy until his death in 1961. Elected to complete his term of office, Dr. Phyllis G. Ross, another brilliant graduate of this campus, retained the chancellorship to the end of the academic year in 1966.

The President throughout this third era was Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie. Already well known across Canada as an authority on international law, as a teacher, and as a successful university administrator, he was appointed to succeed Dr. Klinck in 1944. With wisdom, with vision, with great daring, and with unfaltering consideration for those around him, staff and students alike, he guided the University through eighteen incredible years.

Within a few brief months of his installation the flow of returning veterans from the second world war swept across the campus, tripling the enrolment to almost ten thousand. New faculties were born, and fresh accommodation, temporary and permanent, sprang from the soil. In the early fifties came a brief recession, followed by new pressures, constant and unrelenting. By 1962 (the date of Dr. MacKenzie's retirement) the University had become a vast and complex organization. Composed of eleven faculties, with many schools and a multitude of departments, it had a student body of over thirteen thousand and a teaching staff of over a thousand. Its international reputation as an excellent institution of higher learning had been firmly established, and to Point Grey came students and faculty from all parts of the world. UBC now served not only the Province that gave it birth but also areas far beyond these borders. Under the guidance of a most distinguished President, the hopes of the founders had been richly realized.

Dr. MacKenzie's successor, Dr. John Barfoot Macdonald, was installed as president in October, 1962. He had arrived on campus in the summer of that year, and his arrival marked the beginning of a new era, the fourth. Having received his dental education at the University of Toronto, and having served with the Royal Canadian Dental Corps during the Second World War, he continued advanced studies in the field of bacteriology and quickly achieved a reputation as a research scientist. As Professor of Microbiology and Director of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary at Harvard University, he was known for his administrative abilities and for his promotion of research and postgraduate education. Almost immediately after his arrival on this campus he gave top priority to the preparation and writing of the now famous report, Higher Education in British Columbia and a Plan for the Future, which, without question, led to the passing of the new Universities Act and the subsequent changing of the pattern of advanced education in British Columbia. It is by this work and its consequences that his regime at UBC will be chiefly remembered.

Within this university proper, he stressed the need for expansion of graduate studies, and he did much to help alleviate the ever present problem of accommodation. He also directed the establishment of the Faculty of Dentistry, having laid the groundwork for this project by a report he had submitted to the University some years earlier entitled

A Prospectus of Dental Education. The era also saw the phenomenal expansion of the holdings of the Library, the direct result of a most generous donation from Dr. H. R. MacMillan. Seen, too, were the completion of plans for the Health Sciences Centre, a vast undertaking which will be ready for operation in the foreseeable future. At the end of Dr. Macdonald's presidency, the student population of the University had risen to over eighteen thousand, with a full time teaching staff of nearly thirteen hundred.

It was during the closing period of this era that the present Chancellor, John M. Buchanan, was elected to office. A graduate of UBC in 1917, he has been one of Vancouver's most distinguished citizens, and since his installation in June, 1966, he has served the University with great diligence and wisdom.

With the resignation of Dr. Macdonald, the Board of Governors appointed as Acting-President, Dean Walter Gage, to serve until the installation today of Dr. Hare. No one could have been better fitted to conduct the University's affairs during the interregnum which now comes to a close. Dean Gage is known to all and knows everybody. He has served the University with love and unremitting labour for many years. He is by nature a skilled administrator. He has wisdom, warmth, and understanding. For his most recent contributions the university community will be grateful for many years to come.

And in conclusion (and especially for those who have heraldic interests) the coat-of-arms of the University is formally described in the following terms: "Argent three Bars wavy Azure issuant from the base of a demi Sun in splendour proper on a Chief of the second an open Book also proper edged strapped and buckled Or inscribed with the words 'TUUM EST'."

DR. FREDERICK KENNETH HARE

Dr. Frederick Kenneth Hare, who today is being installed as the fifth President of the University of British Columbia, was born in Wylde, Wiltshire, England, on the fifth day of February, 1919. He received his early education at Windsor Grammar School and then entered King's College, the University of London, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Science, with first-class honours in geography, in 1939.

After a brief period as lecturer in geography at the University of Manchester, he served for four years (1941-45) as an operational forecaster in the Meteorological Office of the British Air Ministry.

At the end of the war he was appointed as an assistant professor of geography at McGill University in Montreal, but found time to continue graduate studies in geography at the University in Montreal, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1950.

His academic career at McGill extended over nineteen years. He moved rapidly to the rank of professor in the Department of Geography and Meteorology, and was Chairman of the Geography Department from 1950 until 1961. In his closing years at McGill he served as Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science, holding this influential office from 1962 to 1964. In that year he returned to England to become professor of geography at King's College, the University of London, and two years later he was appointed Master of Birkbeck College in the same university.

As geographer, meteorologist and administrator, he has actively participated in the work of British, American, and Canadian scientific societies and institutions. He is a Fellow and former Councillor of the Royal Geographical Society, an Honorary Fellow of the American Geographical Society, and has been a member of the National Research Council of Canada, Chairman of the Board of the Arctic Institute of North America, Honorary President of the Association of American Geographers, President of the Canadian Association of Geographers, President of the Royal Meteorological Society, and a member of the United Kingdom Natural Environment Research Council. He also served as a member of the Commission to Study the Development of Graduate Programmes in Ontario Universities, chaired by Dr. J. W. T. Spinks, the President of the University of Saskatchewan. It was this Commission that issued the well known Spinks Report.

An ever-active scholar, Dr. Hare has written numerous articles on meteorology and geography, and published in 1953 a textbook on climatology "The Restless Atmosphere" and in 1968 a work entitled "On University Freedom in the Canadian Context". His achievements as scientist and educator have been widely recognized, and he was granted the degrees of Doctor of Laws (honoris causa) in 1964 by Queens University and in 1968 by the University of Western Ontario.

Obviously his days have been busy, but—somehow—he has found times for recreation and relaxation. He is fond of gardening and of outdoor life, has been deeply interested in photography, and has a profound and active love of music.

Dr. Hare is married and has two sons—Christopher John and Robin Gilbert—and one daughter—Elissa Beatrice. In Vancouver, he and his family will live in the President's House on Northwest Marine Drive.

THE UNIVERSITY THANKS ITS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT

The University owes much of its stature to private gifts. Research studies by the academic staff and graduate assistants are made possible, in large measure, by such grants. Special teaching projects are supported or assisted by bequests. Many scholarships, prizes and bursaries have been provided by individual benefactors, alumni, firms, foundations and associations. Some of the major buildings on the campus, as well as a wide variety of other projects, serve as lasting testimony to the generosity of those who helped build U.B.C.

The basic support of the University is provided by student fees and by grants from the Province of British Columbia and the Government of Canada. The excellence of the education it offers, however, depends to a great extent on added support received from friends. Benefactors, during the past year, donated $6,522,608.

A record of private gifts made in the year ending 31st March 1968 will be mailed to the donors and to others concerned with support for higher education. Should you wish to receive a copy of this brochure please write or call the Resources Council as shown at the foot of the page.

The brochure shows a fascinating variety of thoughtful and meaningful gifts-in-kind, as well as the many hundreds of gifts of money: bison and mountain goat bones from Lulu Island and the skull of an extinct bison found in the Yukon territory; a grinding mill, valued at $1500; a Chinese culture chart, a set of New Guinea arrows and a bow; one purebred Yorkshire boar; the ceremonial robes, Haida crest shirt, church robes and pilot cap of the late Rev. Dr. Peter Kelley, who was a United Church missionary skipper on the "Thomas Crosby" mission boat based in Ocean Falls; a free aeroplane trip (to secure silver ore specimens); a telescope for Cecil Green Park; 1000 day old chicks. Alumni across the world make their contributions, many annually. Gifts have been made anonymously, directly, in memory of relatives, in honour of friends and by bequest in wills. This brochure does not include the detail of the magnificent support received from donors to the Three Universities Capital Fund. Provincial and Federal Government grants, the mainstay of the University's finances, are recorded in other University publications.

With twelve faculties, seven schools and four institutes, the needs of the University are many and varied. Support is welcome in every area of teaching, research and student aid. However, as the needs and priorities of the University change we welcome early opportunities to discuss with donors the form their support might take. No gift is too small—and none too large—to be of value.
