THE UBC SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Director: Professor Martin Berinbaum

1993 UNIVERSITY TEACHING PRIZE WINNERS

Faculty of Agricultural Sciences

Susan I. Barr Associate Professor, School of Family and Nutritional Sciences

Dr. Susan Barr is an Associate Professor of Human Nutrition and Dietetics in the School of Family and Nutritional Sciences. Since her appointment to the School in 1981, Dr. Barr has been consistently rated above average in teaching by her students, and she is particularly noted for being well prepared and logical in her presentations and for being knowledgeable and current in her subject matter. She is also recognized for her ability to create a positive learning environment for students. Dr. Barr takes her teaching responsibilities seriously and is generous with her time outside the classroom in working with students. She also devotes considerable time to the development of materials to facilitate student learning. Dr. Barr's teaching skills are not limited to the formal classroom. She has made many important and innovative contributions to continuing education in nutrition, including the use of audio-telephone conferencing to reach a province-wide audience. In 1992, Dr. Barr was presented with the Mead Johnson Award for "outstanding achievement in nutrition education and research" by the British Columbia Dietitians' and Nutritionists Association.

David M. Shackleton Associate Professor, Department of Animal Science

The impact of Dr. David Shackleton's excellence in teaching extends well beyond his research area of animal behaviour. Undergraduate students are eager to attend his classes where he creates a learning environment in which they feel a sense of growth and accomplishment as they learn new skills and knowledge. Graduate students are impressed by his genuine enthusiasm and his ability to draw students into challenging academic discussions. Within his Faculty, he is an educational leader in both undergraduate and graduate teaching policy. Dr. Shackleton was the first UBC faculty member to be invited to become a member of the Effective Teaching Techniques workshops (TIPS) team. He has subsequently taught in a number of their workshops. Dr. Shackleton's drive for excellence has instilled, in graduate students and faculty alike, the desire to improve their personal teaching skills.

Faculty of Applied Science

Gary Schajer Associate Professor, Department of Mechanical Engineering

Superior teaching requires a great deal of effort. Professor Schajer has consistently demonstrated not merely his willingness, but indeed his eagerness to put forth that effort. During his three years at UBC he has taught several demanding core Mechanical Engineering courses. He has focussed his attention on high enrolment undergraduate courses because he believes that it is in these courses that undergraduate students can most benefit from careful teaching. In addition to requiring substantial effort, superior teaching also requires other ingredients—a good classroom technique, good rapport with students, and a genuine concern for the welfare of the students. Dr. Schajer excels in each of these areas. UBC is fortunate to have a teacher of Professor Schajer's excellence on its faculty; he is a worthy recipient of the Teaching Award.

Bill Caselton Associate Professor, Department of Civil Engineering

Dr. Caselton has an excellent style of presentation and has the ability to make difficult concepts easily understood. This is particularly commendable in view of the area of his teaching which involves probability, statistics and decision analysis—topics which many civil engineering students have traditionally found difficult. Dr. Caselton gives very willingly of his time to go over concepts with students on an individual basis in his office. Dr. Caselton combines teaching fundamental concepts with teaching at the leading edge of topics in his courses. His teaching evaluations are outstanding. In addition, Dr. Caselton has been an enthusiastic supporter of the Department's teaching activities in more general terms. Because of his outstanding and long term commitment to teaching at the undergraduate and graduate level, Dr. Caselton richly deserves the recognition given by this Teaching Prize.

Faculty of Arts

Robert Allen Professor, Department of Economics

Robert Allen specializes in European economic history, American economic history, and the economics of technological change. Since joining UBC in 1975 he has taught a variety of courses ranging from introductory economics and Arts One to undergraduate courses in technological change and the political economy of capitalism to graduate courses in economic history. He is highly regarded as a stimulating and dedicated teacher who brings economics to life while encouraging students to address important social issues. Current and past students particularly stress his ability to generate an enthusiasm for intellectual inquiry.

Daniel Hiebert Assistant Professor, Department of Geography

Dr. Dan Hiebert teaches courses in economic geography, urbanization, urban historical geography and the regional geography of Canada. Day-in and day-out he gives virtuoso performances in the classroom. His style is relaxed, at ease but this belies the fact that he is meticulously prepared. In particular he is totally up to date, drawing his examples from today's news. Some measure of the enthusiasm he stirs is contained in the remarks of a former student: "Sometimes I walked out of this class with the most excellent buzz for learning! Courses like this one—as well as instructors—make the university worthwhile". Outside the classroom he is just as keen to stimulate the interest and understanding of students and to improve the overall teaching environment. Dr. Hiebert is a natural teacher of remarkable ability, effectiveness, enthusiasm, sensitivity and dedication.

Edward Hundert Associate Professor, Department of History

Edward Hundert joined the Department of History in 1968 and since then has taught a wide range of undergraduate and graduate courses in the Department and the Faculty of Arts. He has also taught for many years in the Arts I programme and has served twice as its co-ordinator. He is a specialist in the history of modern European thought.

Allan Smith Associate Professor, Department of History

Allan Smith is a specialist in Canadian history with particular interests in the history of Canadian-American relations, the cultural and intellectual history of Canada, and historiography. Since coming to the department in 1967 he has taught widely in our undergraduate and graduate programmes. He has also taught in the Arts I programme and has played an active role in the development of the new Canadian Studies programme. Professor Smith has consistently been closely involved with some of the most innovative teaching activities within the department and the faculty throughout his career at UBC.

Norma Wieland Lecturer, Germanic Studies

Mrs. Wieland has won the appreciation of her students for her hard work both in the classroom and beyond it. Her combination of instructional skills with enthusiasm, approachability and unfailing encouragement for her students have made her a highly effective teacher. Her contribution to the department's annual German Immersion Weekend has helped make this event a highlight of our students' academic year.

Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration

Thomas R. Knight Associate Professor, Industrial Relations Management

Thomas Knight is the recipient of the Arne Olsen Master Teacher Award for undergraduate education for a career of teaching excellence and innovation. Tom's contributions to teaching include an effective collective bargaining simulation, development of an internship program for students studying industrial relations management, and stimulating linkages between the downtown business community and the classroom.

Brian Graham Lecturer, Management Science

Brian Graham is the recipient of the CGA Master Teacher Award for graduate education for the interest, enthusiasm and dedication he has brought to teaching. Brian has been effective in teaching some of our most difficult technical courses, and has brought mathematical literacy to students who previously had feared anything numeric.

Yair Wand Associate Professor, Management Information Systems

Yair Wand is the recipient of the Talking Stick Award for pedagogical innovation for development of a computer based approach to lecture delivery. This approach is effective in maintaining student interest and in clarifying complex topics. It allows great flexibility in the level of detail and sequencing of topics in a lecture, breaking away from the linear lecture approach often used in the classroom.

Faculty of Dentistry

Colin Price Professor, Department of Oral Medical and Surgical Sciences

During his career at UBC Dr. Price has sustained a record of teaching excellence in the Faculty of Dentistry. He is described by his students as a caring mentor who effectively balances an expectation of high standards with concern for the educational process and a sensitivity to the personal needs of students. Professionally, he is one of a small number of oral radiologists in Canada who is well recognized and respected throughout the profession and regarded by his peers as a superb clinician. Active in research, he brings the art and science of radiology and a wealth of practice experience to both the classroom and clinical settings. Knowledgeable and enthusiastic, Dr. Price is known to be thorough, stimulating and one who is constantly reviewing and modifying his teaching materials and methodologies. Beyond the predoctoral program, Dr. Price provided valuable and committed leadership in the growth and development of the Faculty's new graduate program in Oral Radiology. In addition, he is generous with both his time and talents in providing continuing dental education for the profession. His dedication to students, the faculty, and the profession all combine to make Dr. Price an excellent choice for the 1993 University Teaching Prize for the Faculty of Dentistry.

Faculty of Education

Gaalen Erickson Professor, Department of Mathematics and Science Education

Dr. Erickson is an outstanding teacher and supervisor. His major contribution to teaching in the Faculty comes at the graduate level and it is not an over-statement to say that many graduate students in Science Education come to UBC in order to study with him. As part of his on-going research program Dr. Erickson established a network of classroom teachers and graduate students, SI^2 , whose goal it is to promote constructivist teaching principles in the teaching of science and to develop curriculum materials to fit that paradigm. His work is internationally recognized and his skill and dedication in his roles as teacher and mentor of graduate students are widely known.

Graham Kelsey Associate Professor, Department of Administrative, Adult and Higher Education

Dr. Kelsey is an excellent teacher in very large teacher education classes, in graduate classes in the area of educational administration, and as a supervisor of students at both the magistral and doctoral levels. He has an enviable and widely-known reputation for providing the most careful, exacting and unlimited attention to his graduate students. His dedication to them, to the teacher education students, and to his graduate classes is remarkable. He is known for his care, attention, wit, scholarly acumen, and his very able direction.

Faculty of Forestry

Karel Klinka Vladimir J. Krajina Chair of Silvics and Silviculture

The Faculty of Forestry Outstanding Teacher Award Recipient in 1993 is Professor Karel Klinka, in recognition of his thorough knowledge of Forest Ecosystems and his enthusiasm in communicating his knowledge to students and practicing foresters.

Faculty of Graduate Studies

Paul J. Harrison Professor, Department of Oceanography and Department of Botany

Supervision is an essential element in teaching at the graduate level. Dr. Paul J. Harrison brings very special qualities to his role as graduate supervisor. His confidence in and respect for students leaves them feeling much more like colleagues than like students. His openness and personal integrity serve as examples to all. In giving advice, he carefully balances scientific goals with the realities of research and academic requirements, yet manages to put the students' best interests first, emphasizing their work above his own. Dr. Harrison encourages independent thought and insists that the inspiration for research projects comes from his students. He has an uncanny ability to inspire the students to work at their capacity while being enthusiastic and very supportive intellectually, financially and on a personal level. Both current and former students have joined together in their testimony of the unique and inspirational role which Dr. Harrison has played in their graduate education. He is a very worthy winner of the Faculty of Graduate Studies Teaching Award for 1993.

Faculty of Law

Dennis Pavlich Professor

Born in Zimbabwe, Professor Pavlich began his academic career at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, in 1972. He joined the UBC Faculty of Law in 1975, after obtaining an LL.M. from Yale University. Long regarded as a superb educator, this is the second time in six years Professor Pavlich has been the recipient of the award for teaching excellence. Professor Pavlich's eloquence, enthusiasm and knowledge have made his courses among the most sought after classes in the Faculty. Professor Pavlich's interests are not limited to the Faculty of Law. He also finds time to serve as an elected member of the UBC Board of Governors.

Faculty of Medicine

Vincent Sweeney Professor, Department of Medicine, Neurologist, and Director, Division of Biomedical Ethics

Dr. Sweeney is the Coordinator for the Undergraduate Teaching Program in Neurology and is highly regarded internationally for his innovative, direct and effective teaching strategies. In addition, he has been instrumental in the establishment of the Centre for Applied Ethics at UBC and especially, the formation of the Division of Biomedical Ethics. This is a unique program in Canada, and Dr. Sweeney is playing a leading role in moving Biomedical Ethics teaching into all of the Health Care Faculties. With his extensive clinical experience he is able to add illustrative anecdotes to make his lectures come alive. Dr. Sweeney's long dedication to this University and his innovative approach to the incorporation of medical ethics into the curriculum of the Health Science Faculties make him a most worthy recipient of this Award.

Bruce Tiberis Instructor I, Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology

Dr. Tiberis, after only two years of teaching at UBC, was recognized as an outstanding teacher and was the first recipient in 1988 of the Science Undergraduate Student Award for Excellence in Teaching. Later, in 1991 he received the Medical Undergraduate Society Award for Teaching Excellence from the first year medical class. He has been an active member of the Faculty Association's Faculty Development Project helping others to hone their teaching skills. Accolades for Dr. Tiberis' teaching skills from his students are many and his students regularly rate him one of the best teachers on campus. He has the ability to convey his dedication and genuine concern for each student as an individual. He modestly admits that "there is no special magic when I'm standing in front of a class that makes me a different kind of human being. I'm just the guy who they've hired to teach them".

Christine Carpenter Instructor and Academic Clinical Coordinator
School of Rehabilitation Sciences

Ms. Carpenter has been a fulltime faculty member in the School of Rehabilitation Sciences since 1988. She has consistently demonstrated excellence, creativity and initiative in her teaching to undergraduate physical and occupational therapy students at UBC as well as to Clinical Instructors throughout the province. In her capacity as Clinical Coordinator, Ms. Carpenter excels as "unofficial ambassador" to the community while supervising students and providing superb workshops. In addition to her regular teaching schedule she is active on several educational committees within the School. She sees to it that the needs of her students are met both academically and clinically and, as a result, Ms. Carpenter is viewed by her peers as a leader, and a role model in her profession.

Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences

Timothy P. Stratton Assistant Professor, Division of Pharmacy Administration

Dr. Stratton's teaching has been evaluated each year by the students and he has consistently achieved ratings in the high 4s. He has also made significant contributions to the development of undergraduate and graduate courses in the Division of Pharmacy Administration and also in the area of professional practice. Dr. Stratton is an outstanding teacher and a very well rounded, multi-talented individual who has devoted a lot of energy and time to many functions in the Faculty which have involved faculty, staff and students. He is richly deserving of this special recognition.

Faculty of Science

Barbara C. Dill Senior Instructor, Department of Microbiology

Dr. Barbara Dill received A.B. and M.Sc. degrees from Wayne State University and a Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley, the latter under the direction of Professor Melvin Fuller. After a year at the University of Georgia, she came to UBC in 1970, where she is now a Senior Instructor. She has taught a wide range of courses in the Department of Microbiology; she is a member of the American Society for Microbiology.

Charles A. Swanson Professor, Department of Mathematics

Dr. Charles Swanson has received B.A. and M.A. degrees from UBC, and a Ph.D. from the California Institute of Technology, the latter under the direction of Professor Arthur Erdelyi. After a year as a Research Fellow at Caltech., he joined UBC as an Instructor II in 1957. He was promoted to Professor in 1965. He is a member of the Canadian Mathematical Society, and has been an Associate Editor of the Canadian Journal of Mathematics.

Larry Weiler Professor, Department of Chemistry

Dr. Larry Weiler received his B.Sc. degree from the University of Toronto, and his Ph.D. from Harvard University under the direction of Professor R.B. Woodward. He came immediately to UBC as an Assistant Professor, and was promoted to Professor in 1980. He was Head of the Department of Chemistry from 1982-90, and served on the UBC Senate from 1984-90. He is a member of several learned societies, including the Chemical Institute of Canada, the American Chemical Society and the Chemical Society of London. He was the 1984 winner of the Merck, Sharpe and Dohme Award of the Chemical Institute of Canada.

THE UNIVERSITY THANKS ITS FRIENDS FOR THEIR CONTRIBUTIONS

It is an immense source of pride for the University to know that an increasing number of its alumni and friends realize the important role private gifts play in the life of an educational institution.

The basic support for the University comes from fees and from the Province of British Columbia and the Government of Canada. Nevertheless, there are important areas not covered by such funding, creating opportunities to enrich the University through private donations. Alumni and friends are playing a more important role than ever in supplementing government support to build a greater UBC.

In 1989, UBC launched The UBC Campaign, A World of Opportunity, the largest university fund-raising Campaign in Canadian history. Designed to provide the facilities, equipment, scholarships and endowed chairs required for academic distinction, when the Campaign draws to a close in 1993, it is expected that private sector and government donations will total more than $250 million.

The University wishes to express its appreciation to those who through their gifts have demonstrated their commitment to the ideals of the University and their awareness of its needs. Your generosity contributes immeasurably to the vitality and strength of UBC.

With more than one hundred academic departments, schools, research institutes and centres administered by the faculties, the opportunities are many and varied. We have an excellent faculty and strong academic programmes on which to build.

Be assured that UBC will strive to continue to merit your confidence and support.

For further information about gifts to UBC, please contact the Development Office, The University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B.C. V6T 1Z1, Telephone 822-8900
