ACADEMIC REGALIA

The wearing of academic costume is a tradition that has persisted from the Middle Ages, when the first Universities were founded.

The regalia vary slightly from one University to another and, within a University, according to the status of the wearer.

At The University of British Columbia the undergraduate's gown is black and of the ordinary stuff material; the yoke is edged with khaki cord. The Master's gown is similar but lacks the cord.

The colours for the degrees are:

B.A.—University blue	B.Sc.(Pharm.)— Dark green with scarlet cord
B.F.A.—University blue with magenta cord	B.Sc.(O.T.)—Scarlet and white twisted cord on royal blue
B.A.Sc.—Scarlet	B.Sc.(P.T.) —Scarlet and white twisted cord on royal blue
B.Com.—Light grey with black and grey cord	B.S.W.—Magenta
B.Ed.—White with University blue cord	LL.B.—Amethyst violet
B.H.E.—Turquoise	M.D.—Scarlet and royal blue
B.L.A.—Maize with scarlet cord	B.M.L.Sc.—Scarlet and royal blue twisted cord on white

B.Sc.(Forestry)—Brown with light blue cord
B.S.N.—Scarlet with twisted cord of University blue and white

The Bachelor's hood is edged with the distinctive colour. The Master's hood is the same as the Bachelor's, except that it is lined with the distinctive colour. The hood for the M.Sc. (Bus. Admin.) is similar to that of the M.Sc., with grey trim and black and white cord. The hood for the M.Eng. is the same as that of the M.A.Sc., except that it is trimmed with a cord of University blue.

The regalia of the Ph.D. consists of a gown, Cambridge style, of maroon silk with front facing-panel and sleeves of University blue with gold piping; a hood, Cambridge pattern, of blue silk outside and gold lining; a cap, decanal bonnet, of maroon silk with gold cord and tassel. The Ed.D. regalia consists of a gown, Cambridge style, of black stuff; a hood, American style, with lining of light blue and with chevron of University blue, white and gold; a cap, decanal bonnet, of black stuff with gold cord and tassel. The D.M.A. regalia is similar to that of the Ed.D. with hood lined with alizarin crimson and a chevron of University blue and gold. The hood for the honorary degree LL.D. is of scarlet broadcloth lined in dark blue velvet; for the D.Sc., it is lined in dark purple and for the D. Litt., it is lined in cream.

THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA KILLAM TEACHING PRIZE WINNERS

Faculty of Agricultural Sciences

Margaret Arcus

Professor, School of Family and Nutritional Sciences

Margaret Arcus is recognized by her students as an outstanding teacher. Her lectures are among the best attended in the School of Family and Nutritional Sciences. One of her students provides the best recognition of her teaching skills: "My first impression of Dr. Arcus was that she was an excellent lecturer, and that she respected, and was respected by, her students. I had never before seen a professor engage her students in learning as did Dr. Arcus. She spoke eloquently, she was extremely knowledgeable, and she captivated her audience. Rather than memorizing facts, Dr. Arcus challenged us to think critically about the course material. As a result, I learned an enormous amount in her class. One of my most vivid memories of my early impressions of Dr. Arcus was her personality. Starting from the first day of class, Dr. Arcus learned all 70 of our names, and referred to us by name whenever possible. In Dr. Arcus's class, I felt like a person, not like a number. Dr. Arcus has had a most significant impact on my life. For it was the enthusiasm and love for her field of work that she demonstrated in every class that sparked my interest in family life education".

Faculty of Applied Science

Barbara Paterson

Assistant Professor, School of Nursing

Professor Barbara Paterson plays a role in the School of Nursing that impacts upon teaching in a number of ways. She participates in teaching the undergraduate and graduate nursing curricula, and in some of her courses this includes the subject of teaching itself. As well, she is engaged in research focused on innovations in nursing education. It is her outstanding contribution in the first of these roles, namely that of teacher, that is recognized here. Professor Paterson adopts a very individual approach to her students, seeking always to overcome any personal barriers to learning. She is particularly caring and responsive to their concerns, encouraging them to identify and meet their own educational goals. She conveys to her students a real joy about nursing, and an enthusiasm for learning - including learning from the insights and experiences of her students.

Michael Quick

Professor, Department of Civil Engineering

Both colleagues and students in the Department of Civil Engineering describe Michael Quick as a dedicated and enthusiastic teacher with the ability to inspire similar enthusiasm in his students. Professor Quick's high standard and devotion to teaching have been sustained over many years. This is reflected in his receipt of the Walter Gage Teaching Award from the Engineering Undergraduate Society in 1985 and the Civil Engineering Teaching Award from the Civil Engineering student body in 1995. Professor Quick's areas of expertise are in fluid mechanics, hydraulics, river engineering, hydrology and coastal engineering. He makes a major contribution in teaching these topics from the undergraduate second year to advanced graduate courses. He uses his wide experience as researcher and consultant, both at home and abroad, to enliven his lectures and demonstrate how the knowledge being developed in his courses can be applied to engineering situations. This clear connection between theory and practice has been acknowledged by his students as an important factor in maintaining their attention and motivation. His students also note that his lectures, while invariably rigorous and well reasoned, are also frequently punctuated by his widely appreciated sense of humor.

Faculty of Arts

John Boyd

Assistant Professor, Department of Economics

There is a brief note in John Boyd's file which epitomizes his great gift as a teacher of Economics: "I found both the Micro and Macro courses enthralling," it reads. "I have read The Economist for ten years but never really understood how things worked until now." To understand Economics and to be enthralled by the discipline: these are the qualities Professor Boyd offers his students. His teaching, as his students consistently point out, is a "paradigm of clarity" which reveals his "incredible knack for getting across complex theories...in a simple matter-of-fact way." His courses may remain an academic challenge, but his instruction makes the challenge itself accessible to all those who study international economics and economic theory. And beyond the technical grasp of math and theory, "he challenges us," says one of his students, "to think about why things are the way they are." John Boyd, as one of his colleagues points out, "is our best teacher. This has been the case ever since he came to UBC nearly 30 years ago." The UBC Killam Teaching Prize is a well-deserved recognition of this achievement.

Derek Carr

Associate Professor, Department of Hispanic and Italian Studies

Derek Carr communicates his sharp critical insights and the profundity of his scholarship with a lightness of touch and a unique brand of wry north-country humour. His quiet modesty, eloquence and wit have carried beyond the confines of the University into the community at large, where his talks on Spanish art and culture have gained him the reputation of an erudite and entertaining speaker. He is also an indefatigable class-room teacher whose office door is rarely closed, and as advisor to students and colleagues he is a welcoming and encouraging presence in his Department. He has the reputation, moreover, of taking upon himself—even during his ten burdensome years of Headship—whatever teaching is required by the curriculum. New courses, directed reading courses, overload courses: he meets the demands of increased enrollments by doing more teaching and so inspires others in his Department.

to accommodate students in the Hispanic and Italian Studies programmes. Because of Derek Carr's outstanding record as a teacher, his dedication to students' needs, and his generosity with his time and expertise, we award him this well-merited prize.

Joy Dixon Assistant Professor, Department of History

An insistent theme runs through the many letters written to us by students recommending Joy Dixon for this teaching prize: all regard her as a personal inspiration and an exemplar of the rewards and excitement of the academic life. What is most remarkable about Joy Dixon's career at UBC is that, in the relatively brief time she has taught here, she has acquired a reputation as one of the most energetic, engaging, and versatile members of her Department. She is also one of the most innovative. She has recently introduced a new course on Gender, Politics, and Culture in Modern Europe. "It is fair to say," writes her Head of Department, "that this course has had a greater intellectual impact on our teaching program than any other we have adopted during the previous decade." To these accomplishments one must add: her unfailing availability for advice and discussion, her warm and engaging manner, her deep concern for her students, and her active promotion of intellectual exchanges beyond the confines of the classroom. Dr. Dixon is an outstanding candidate for the UBC Killam teaching prize for excellence in teaching.

Judy Segal Assistant Professor, Department of English

Judy Segal, writes one of her students, "never gives the impression that she is teaching you rather she seems to be learning alongside you, offering helpful and positive advice." Teaching, for her, is a learning process; and her lectures are "collaborative projects" in which students are actively encouraged to contribute to the sum of knowledge. Dialogue, discussion, and a genuine spirit of inquiry characterize her pedagogy. Out of disagreement she is able to cultivate a spirit of intellectual curiosity, and it is this quality that makes her, par excellence, a teacher's teacher: one to whom others gravitate for advice, support and sympathy with their own teaching problems. "One can find Judy," writes one of her colleagues, "at the mailboxes, in the corridors, in the stairwell, discussing issues of pedagogy on a daily basis." The lessons learned from Dr. Segal, by students and colleagues alike, are those of sensitivity and diplomacy in classroom dynamics, nurturance in league with critical rigour, flexibility in combination with responsibility, and openness while still honouring the obligations implicit in the activity of teaching. Scores of students and colleagues have positively insisted that she be awarded this UBC Killam Teaching Prize.

Floyd St. Clair Assistant Professor, Department of French

Very few teachers become legends in their own lifetime. And yet the adjective most frequently used in the tributes to Floyd St. Clair is the word "legendary". The 200-300 students who take his French 400 class each year leave it convinced that Dr. St. Clair is the most inspirational teacher they have ever encountered. His Head of Department once wrote of him: "The laws of physics demand that one day, if he continues at that pace, he will inevitably burn out. For the moment he is still blazing away, entirely undiminished". The "sheer fire of enthusiasm" that characterizes his teaching continues to defy the laws of physics. As a teacher, he has been messianic in communicating the value of art, reaching far beyond the University to inspire an entire community of readers and listeners with his great enthusiasm for literature, opera and music. "Floyd St. Clair is a humanist in the truest and best tradition," writes one of his colleagues; and as role-model, mentor, friend, and inspiration to his students, he richly merits this tribute to his thirty-three years of service to the University and to Canada.

Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration

Izak Benbasat Professor and Associate Dean

Izak Benbasat is the 1995-96 recipient of the Faculty of Commerce CGA Master Teacher Award for his substantial contributions to the M.Sc. and Ph.D. programs over many years. Since 1988, eight of his students have graduated and two are about to graduate from our Ph.D. program. These graduates have obtained academic positions all over Canada and the world. This is an extraordinary number of Ph.D. students to supervise in such a short period of time and there is no doubt that Professor Benbasat has had a significant influence on their careers. His contribution to our graduate program is evident in his scholarship activities with his students. Professor Benbasat has published fifty-three articles with Ph.D. and M.Sc. students in Management Information Systems since 1986. This has added to the general knowledge in his field and has had a direct impact on the scholarly focus of our students. Professor Benbasat has also developed an excellent Ph.D. seminar on empirical methods in Management Information Systems. In the letter nominating Professor Benbasat for this award, his colleagues indicate that "Izak has also provided research support, guidance and leadership to his peers as well". In summary, Professor Benbasat has brought superb intellectual leadership to our graduate programs.

Maurice Levi Professor

Maurice Levi is the recipient of the 1995-96 Faculty of Commerce Arne Olsen Master Teacher Award for his lengthy history of superb teaching at all levels in the Faculty. Professor Levi was selected based on two particular aspects of his contributions. First, there are his excellent teaching ratings over many years. Course comments from his present undergraduate students represent views which have often been expressed about Professor Levi. He is described as an excellent instructor who has the ability to communicate knowledge clearly and succinctly. Second, Professor Levi has made a noteworthy contribution to undergraduate education through his textbooks. Amongst the many books that he has authored over the years, several are directly related to the conveyance of knowledge for the undergraduate student. Some have also been translated into multiple foreign titles. Together these books amply demonstrate a long and deep commitment to the conveyance of economic and finance knowledge to the broader undergraduate population, both here and throughout the world.

Faculty of Dentistry

Hannu Larjava

Associate Professor, Dept. of Clinical Dental Sciences

Hannu Larjava is being recognized as an outstanding teacher in the graduate periodontic program. Periodontics is on the forefront in preventing oral disease that will affect our ability to avoid tooth loss. With the impact of our aging population, longevity of a healthy dentition has become an even more significant public health issue. Dr. Larjava has developed a unique combined research-based graduate degree program which simultaneously trains clinical specialists beyond standards required anywhere in Canada. This has required an innovative curriculum in which the same critical inquiry that is used in basic sciences is exercised in the clinical disciplines. Similarly the crucial and significant questions that must be resolved in order to significantly advance periodontal clinical sciences become priorities in the research agenda. The success of this approach has been a function of Dr. Larjava's quiet but confident enthusiasm, his openness to instructors and students alike, his devotion to endless hours of student contact and his constant challenge to ensure that this combined program is functional. His ability to personally make that seamless transition on a daily basis from internationally-recognized funded laboratory to academic seminar to patient-centred clinic has ensured the success of what is now the outstanding combined graduate/specialty periodontic program in Canada.

The Faculty of Education

Jean Barman

Professor, Department of Educational Studies

Jean Barman is an exemplar of teaching excellence. If we define teaching in the broad sense of excellence in program development, community-building spirit in the Department and Faculty, mentoring of faculty and of students, and strong teaching in the classroom, Jean Barman has made superb and long-lasting contributions in each of these areas. She is well noted for her work with First Nations students and has achieved a place of honour and respect in the First Nations communities on campus. She is a model of generosity, collegiality and dedication. Dr. Barman is an inspiration to all.

Lee Gunderson

Associate Professor, Department of Language Education

Lee Gunderson's contributions to our teacher education students, ESL graduate students, colleagues, and to the teaching community, are equally excellent. He is known as an interesting, challenging, supportive, dedicated classroom teacher. He models a commitment to life-long learning and fosters a love of learning in others. He reaches beyond the UBC campus community through continuous professional education activities, bringing commitment, enthusiasm and passion to the work of practicing teachers and administrators. His positive impact on the broader educational community is acknowledged by all. Dr. Gunderson's contributions to the growth and learning of students and teachers are widely viewed with respect and gratitude.

Faculty of Forestry

John Worrall

Associate Professor, Department of Forest Sciences

John Worrall is an outstanding teacher, and is widely recognized as such by his many students and his colleagues. Since joining the Faculty in 1968, he has taught more than 1,800 students in an introductory course in dendrology, and numerous others in Forestry 300 (a general forestry course which enrolls many students from outside the Faculty of Forestry, especially from Arts). It is remarkable that John Worrall can remember the name of virtually every student he ever taught. He regularly receives among the highest teaching evaluations in the Faculty. He does this in one of the most difficult courses to teach, a large required first year class. Perhaps most significantly, Professor Worrall receives these accolades in a course normally considered dry and uninspiring. Indeed he transformed what was a straightforward and necessary (if boring) course in taxonomy into a stimulating, broad-based introduction to forestry, encompassing silvics, genetics, physiology, and ecology.

Faculty of Law

Joel Bakan

Associate Professor

Joel Bakan's student evaluations are consistently high during the four years of teaching that were reviewed by the committee in assessing the nominees for this prize. Professor Bakan teaches upper year courses in Constitutional Law, (both the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and Federalism), and various courses in the area of Law, Society and State. He teaches a First Year Perspectives section on Sociology of Law and one on Poverty and Law, as well as a First Year Contracts course. Professor Bakan has been an active supervisor of graduate students and of students doing directed research. He has also been a committed member of faculty in connection with the work of its Curriculum Committee. Professor Bakan states that his general aim as a teacher is to cultivate in students an understanding of law, intellectual curiosity and excitement, flexibility of thought, and a sense of ethical, moral and political ical issues that arise when working with law. He believes that two aims are closely connected, namely, to achieve an understanding of legal doctrine and how to use it effectively, and to achieve an understanding of the relationship between law and its wider social, economic, and political contexts. He has been extraordinarily successful in accomplishing these objectives both in his doctrinal courses and in his more theoretical ones. In short, Professor Bakan's teaching combines theoretical with doctrinal approaches and succeeds because of the excitement and high level of enjoyment he conveys about engagement with issues and ideas.

Faculty of Medicine

Noelle Lamb

Senior Instructor, School of Audiology and Speech Sciences

Noelle Lamb has provided expert, graduate level, instruction in clinical audiology for 20 years. In the classroom, she is known for clarity, attentiveness, and enthusiasm for her discipline. As a designer of the School's curriculum, she has shown a broad and well articulated understanding of applied science and audiological practice. She has effectively established connections between the professional community and the University. Over her years at the school, Noelle Lamb has earned the respect and admiration of her peers for the way in which she works, as well as for her many educational accomplishments. As teacher, mentor, and colleague, Noelle Lamb acts with the highest level of dedication, integrity, and respect for all. By graceful example, she has demonstrated that science and expertise can go hand in hand with social responsibility and service. In this respect, she teaches us all.

Mark Longhurst

Associate Professor, Department of Family Practice

Mark Longhurst, MDCM McGill 1967, joined UBC's Faculty of Medicine in 1980 following eleven years of general practice in Revelstoke, B.C. In 1979, he was awarded his Master's in Clinical Science in Family Medicine following a further year of work at the University of Western Ontario. During his 16 years in the Department of Family Medicine, Dr. Longhurst has developed the post-doctoral family medicine program and pioneered community-based training in the rural and regional centers of B.C. In addition, his research into both the doctor/patient and teacher/learner relationships has been a foundation of his teaching commitment to the personal and professional growth of many of the current family doctors of British Columbia.

Charles Slonecker

Professor, Department of Anatomy

Chuck Slonecker has been a faculty member in the Department of Anatomy for 28 years. He has a strong commitment to the education and the professional development of his students as well as the academic discipline of Anatomy. Anatomical Studies provide the academic background, the language, and the scientific and clinical environment to begin the study of Medicine. Hippocrates noted 2500 years ago that "A knowledge of the human body is the beginning of Medicine." Dr. Slonecker uses the lecture theatre, the laboratories and the fields of Surface Anatomy and Radiological Anatomy to introduce his students to the science and art of Medicine. He believes that half of learning is wanting to learn and that the role of the teacher is to stimulate the student to strive for as much knowledge as one desires to satisfy their intellectual curiosity, their academic responsibilities, their professional requirements and their natural inquisitiveness. Much of the learning of Medicine is rigorous but it should be laced with enjoyment, satisfaction, rewards, some humour and a balanced dose of extracurricular activities and experiences. He appreciates the privilege of being an academic in an excellent Department, Faculty and University and to have the opportunity to teach a selected group of bright and enthusiastic students each year.

Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences

Marguerite Yee

Senior Instructor

Marguerite Yee obtained her B.Sc.(Pharm.) in 1969 from UBC. Currently she is the Coordinator for the Pharmacy Practice courses in the first three years of the undergraduate program and her primary teaching responsibilities are in Pharmacy 100 and 300. Marguerite Yee has developed several new and innovative workshops for Third Year (e.g. "Dosage Forms", "Opening a Pharmacy") and has also helped to coordinate a national network of pharmacy practice instructors called the "Communication Action Network". In addition, she has facilitated the "Pathway Evaluation Program Workshop" which is offered in First Year and teaches a decision-making process related to career planning. In 1985 she designed, developed and initiated the "Communication Adventure Program" which attracts 50-70 undergraduate and graduate students to voluntarily learn about public speaking and meeting skills. The graduating classes for 1980, 1981 and 1994 selected Marguerite Yee to receive the "Master Teaching Award". She was also the recipient of the "Just Desserts Award" in 1986 for her service and dedication to the students and the Pharmacy Undergraduate Society. Marguerite Yee has been commended for her caring, approachable, enthusiastic, innovative and tireless dedication to the development of personal and academic skills of students.

Faculty of Science

David Austin

Associate Professor, Department of Mathematics

David Austin is a professor in the Mathematics Department. He regularly teaches second and third-year mathematics. This is a student nomination and is fully supported by the Department. It is clear why Professor Austin has outstanding rapport with the students. He is an outstanding teacher. His lectures are among the clearest, most well-organized lectures ever seen by members of the Awards Committee. What is even more remarkable is that these lectures are delivered without notes. Professor Austin enjoys what he is doing and this enthusiasm permeates his classes.

Michael Gerry

Professor, Department of Chemistry

Mike Gerry has lectured at all levels of Chemistry, most recently to first-year and graduate students. He has a long, and enviable record of outstanding teaching. His lectures are delivered in a clear and well-organized fashion. They have a logical flow to them and they are punctuated with humour. Professor Gerry is aware of the different background of the students in his lectures. He involves them in the lectures through discussion and questions. These questions are handled extremely well. Professor Gerry's lectures are animated and he deftly captures the students' attention. The logic and order in his board work, and the useful course handouts insure that students gain the maximum benefit from his lectures. For several years Mike Gerry has been active in curriculum development in Chemistry and in the Faculty of Science.

George Spiegelman

Professor, Department of Microbiology

George Spiegelman teaches introductory and fourth-year level Microbiology. The course material for the advanced course is very technical. Professor Spiegelman has a special ability to focus attention on concepts, and to breathe life and vigour into the material with intriguing and stimulating examples of the concepts. He also provides a welcome insight into where this field is going. Professor Spiegelman's lectures are polished, and they are presented with a smooth and animated delivery. He has developed an innovative way to involve students in the curriculum through the submission of written questions which are integrated into the lecture material. He makes a great effort to ensure that the students understand the material. For several years Professor Spiegelman has been an advocate for improving teaching and teaching conditions in his Department and in the Faculty of Science.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME

THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA
SYMPHONIC WIND ENSEMBLE

Director: Professor Martin Berinbaum

*T*HE UNIVERSITY THANKS ITS FRIENDS FOR THEIR SUPPORT

An increasing number of UBC alumni and friends realize the vital role their private gifts play in the life of the university. Their contributions provide key support for UBC's commitment to service through excellence.

Basic support for the university comes from fees and from the Government of British Columbia and the Government of Canada. However, many important areas are not covered by such funding, creating opportunities to support university priorities through private donations. Alumni and friends play a critical role in supplementing government funding to build on UBC's tradition of achievement.

With more than one hundred academic departments, schools, research institutes and centres administered by the faculties, opportunities for support are many and varied. UBC has tremendous expertise among faculty and strong academic programs reflecting community needs on which to build.

In 1989, UBC launched the World of Opportunity Campaign. It was designed to provide the facilities, equipment, scholarships and endowed chairs required for academic distinction. When the campaign wrapped up in 1993, private sector and government donations totalled more than $260 million, making it the largest university fund-raising campaign in Canadian history.

The university wishes to express its appreciation to those who demonstrated their commitment to the ideals of the university and their awareness of its needs. Your generosity contributes immeasurably to the vitality and strength of UBC.

Be assured that UBC will strive to continue to merit your confidence and support.

For further information about gifts to UBC, please contact the Development Office, The University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B.C. V6T 1Z1, Telephone 822-8900.
