

Student Ushers

Role and Responsibilities:

Student Ushers are Faculty and Staff members who assist with the movement of students in the Chan Centre Concert Hall. Student Ushers manage the flow of students by guiding the students from their seats, toward the stage and safely back down from the stage and to their seats. Student Ushers also assist with any late arrivals as well as students with special needs. This volunteer role complements the tasks of the professional Chan Centre Ushers.

Before the Ceremony:

Report to Robing Room (Great Performers Lounge, Chan Centre for the Performing Arts) 45 minutes ahead of ceremony. If you require regalia, this is where you will receive your hood and/or gown. If you do not have a UBC degree, we have a limited supply of usher stoles.

Proceed to Chan Centre Glass Lobby 30 minutes prior to ceremony start time. Student Ushers are there to lend an extra hand to the students and their guests whenever needed. They may assist Student Marshals to ensure students are in their correct processional order.

During the Ceremony:

Two ushers are needed during each ceremony; to help the new graduates descend the stairs from the stage without falling, and to show them back to their original seats in the Chan Chun Concert Hall.

The main part of their work begins as the graduands in the first row line up to process audience right; the two ushers assume their positions, as follows:

- One stands at the bottom of the stairs (audience left) and extends a hand to each person descending, in order to focus their attention on the stairs rather than the audience;
- One stands beside the rows of seats (audience left), indicating the row the graduates should come back to, moving up the aisle as each row fills. This helps ensure the students return to their original seat, where they may have left personal items before going onstage.

At the end of the Ceremony

Student Ushers

The new PhDs will be led off the stage by the Student Marshals (audience right). One of the Student Ushers will cross over to the audience right side of the Concert Hall in order to guide the remaining rows of students out of the Hall. The SECOND and subsequent EVEN rows of students will follow the PhDs, exiting up the right-hand aisle.

In short, all "odd" rows of graduates will follow the academic parties out of the Hall while all "even" rows will follow the PhDs, expediting the exit from the Concert Hall.
